Joyce has a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree in Design and a Masters of Education Degree in Art Education from Miami University. She studied at Cincinnati Art Academy and the University of Cincinnati. Joyce served as the K-12 Supervisor of Visual Art Education for ten years and worked as an elementary school administrator for many years before retiring from the Cincinnati Public School System. She also taught African-American Art History at the University of Cincinnati. She now works as a professional artist, painter, and consultant. Her recent art reflects her effort to harmonize and integrate the abstract and realistic aspects of her work. The intricate moving lines and shapes often interconnect and overlap with each other to make a visual statement about the impermanent, multi-dimensional, illusionary and spiritual quality of our existence
